HERBERT CALLS EXTRA SESSION

More Money for OSU Medical Center, Apple Creek Hospital Asked.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Nov 30 — Ohio legislators, many of them beaten in the election, will meet again next Monday, reluctantly, in a special session.

Gov Thomas J Herbert called the lame duck session last night to raise more money for a tuberculosis hospital at the new Ohio State university medical center and for an administration building at the Apple Creek state school for feeble minded in Wayne county

The call is limited to these two items, despite pleas by the Ohio Association of Municipalities and the Progressive party for consideration of more financial help to cities and other local governments.

The senate can also consider confirmation of recess appointments made by the governor since the last special session July 21, or any he might make in the coming week.

Two Terms Have Expired

The term of Herbert S Atkinson of Columbus as a trustee of Ohio State university expired last May and that of Ray Hughes of Columbus as a trustee of Wilberforce State College of Education and Industrial Arts expired last September Governor Herbert has made appointments to several minor boards since the July session which lifted the one-cent tax on retail sales of less than 41 cents

The governor said he would ask $1,000,000 more for the tuberculosis hospital and $900,000 more for the Apple Creek building

Two million already has been appropriated for the tuberculosis hospital, but bids ran over the figure and unless more money is provided, the appropriation will expire Dec. 10 with no contract let Then the next legislature, meeting Jan 3, would have to consider it all over again

The legislature originally appropriated $365,000 for the Apple Creek building, but this was transferred to a hospital building there, and bids on the building now run to $851,000 More is needed, Herbert said, for additional fees and costs, and the deadline is Dec 15

Leaders Opposed Session

When he first discussed a special session shortly after the election which swept many Republicans out of the legislature, leaders opposed the idea vigorously Herbert himself leaves office in January.

"In my opinion," he said in his call, "these are truly emergency matters If I didn't call the legislature to make the appropriations, I would be open to the charge that I failed to do my duty

Texan Cheered For Heroism At Stock Show

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 — Ten thousand persons stood and cheered a 48-year-old Texas stockman last night for his heroic role in an unscheduled event at the horse show at the International Livestock Exposition

A few minutes before the crowd gave an ovation to Lloyd Jinkens of Fort Worth, Texas, an 800-pound steer leaped a 5-foot fence into the massed spectators at the show

There were screams of terror from among the crowd

Jinkens, cattle breeder and quarter horse exhibitor, spurred his horse to the fence, cleared it with a leap from the saddle, but dogged the animal and led it back into the arena

Police Capt Frank Reynolds said that Jinkens action was the most heroic he ever had seen He said that the steer running amuck among the huge crowd might have trampled many.

By The Associated Press

AKRON O, Nov. 30 — Milk prices took their second penny decrease in three months today, becoming 20 cents a quart beginning tomorrow, it was announced A discount price of 18 cents a quart for buyers of four or more quarts was also announced. Dealers said lower feed prices and good pasture facilities made the cut possible

Good Business Signs Reported

Record Production, Falling Off of Strikes Augurs Well for Industry.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Government economists found good omens for the future today in surveys along the nation's industrial front.

These reports included:

1. A new peacetime production record in October — almost double the pre-war average

2. Fewer strikes the first 10 months of 1948 than in the two preceding years

3. An 11 per cent drop in prices of farm products since January's postwar peak

Although there were some dark spots on the industrial picture the total effect appeared cheering.

In sizing up the production records, the federal reserve board said last night that last month's output boosted its index three points to a level 95 per cent above the 1935-39 average The previous high was February's 94 per cent, but the gauge fell to 87 per cent in April and July.

Production of manufactured goods alone, the board said, better than doubled the pre-war mark, with durable items turned out at a rate 130 per cent above the pre-war scale and non-durable goods produced at a 79 per cent clip.

The federal reserve credited the record October upswing mainly to new production marks in the steel and automobile industries

The board noted, however, that department store sales were not making their usual seasonal rise and that "prices of foods and some other products declined."

These price drops, while cheering to housewives, have been worrying some economists who think they may be the forerunners of a break similar to the post-war collapse of 1920-21

But Ewan Clague, commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, said no such collapse is in prospect

DOOMED JAPS WIN RESPITE

Tojo, Six Others Won't Be Hanged Until U.S. Court Acts on Appeals.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Nov 30 — Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and six other top Japanese warmakers won an eleventh hour respite today from the hangman's noose

General Douglas MacArthur said they would "certainly not" be executed until the supreme court of the United States has acted on appeals by two of the condemned men.

The next scheduled meeting of the supreme court is December 6

(If the supreme court rejects the appeal next Monday, as it did a similar petition by German war criminals, Japan's warmakers could be hanged on Dec 7 on the seventh anniversary of Pearl Harbor.)

The appeals from the international military tribunals verdict were filed in Washington yesterday in behalf of former Premier Koki Hirota, who helped plot Japan's pre-Pearl Harbor war plans, and Gen. Kenji Doihara, known to the Chinese as the "bird of evil omen."

The Associated Press asked the supreme allied command whether General MacArthur would "recognize the appeal and order the execution of these two men delayed or whether he will ignore the appeal."

This brought the following statement from MacArthur's public information office

"In reply to a query from the press as to whether the condemned Japanese war criminals would be executed before action could be taken on appeal to the supreme court of the United States, General MacArthur categorically replied 'certainly not'

Later the public information office said this applied to all seven major war makers, although only two appealed

Despite the delay MacArthur's press officers announced they would continue their 24 hour death watch Presumably the watch would be to handle news of suicide attempts, or similar developments

DRAFT CALLS CUT FOR LACK OF MONEY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Defense officials announced today that the January draft call will be cut from 20,000 to 10,000 and that the February call will be only 5,000

The defense department said budgetary limitations for fiscal 1950 caused the cuts

President Truman has ordered the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 kept to $15,000,000,000

It has been expected that draft calls would be increased each month until they reached 30,000 a month The November call was 10,000 and December 15,000 The January call was to have been 20,000.

Columbus Policemen Offered Overtime Pay

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Nov 30—Columbus offered its policemen today a stepped-up pay rate of $2 an hour for overtime duty in an effort to attract new police recruits

City council authorized the overtime pay boost at the request of Mayor James A Rhodes and Safety Director Charles C Cole The action was taken after an unsuccessful drive to obtain 100 new policemen.

Officials said the overtime pay plan was adopted as an alternative to another round of flat increases in salary

The $2 an hour overtime rate is an increase of 71 cents an hour over the regular pay of $1 29 an hour on the basis of a 208-hour month Overtime work will be voluntary. Police will qualify for overtime assignments on a rotating [illegible]

Trial of New Berlin Peace Plan Expected

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Nov 30 A [illegible] for [illegible] of the Berlin [illegible] devised by a plan which would give up appears assured of a Big Four trial

Diplomatic progress on [illegible] was reported here today over [illegible] German Communists' [illegible] streaks for an apparent attempt to seize political control of all Berlin

Juan A Bramuglia Argentine foreign minister and retiring president of the United Nations security council is the author

The plan calls for a neutral commission of experts to handle the technical and procedural phases of the East-West conflict over dual currency and the Russian land blockade

The United States Britain France and Russia would assign their own representatives to stand by in Paris for 30 days to give whatever aid the expert commission might require

The plan appears intended to save face for all

Bramuglia had been seeking and failing to bring the Big Four together ever since the security council acted Oct 5 to air the charge of the United States Britain and France that the Russian blockade was a threat to peace

Bramuglia announced Russia agreed to his new plan last night and that he expected formal acceptance from the United States Britain and France today They have already accepted in principle

He said he hopes the new mediation effort can get under way immediately He steps down as president of the security council at midnight His successor is Fernand Van Lagenhove of Belgium, the December president of the council.

Would Become "Political"

Through Bramuglia's olive branch campaign, technical problems would be cleared away and the quarrel would be reduced largely to political [illegible]

New Draftees Feted As Generals—for a Night

By The Associated Press

DENVER, Nov 30 (AP) — [illegible] postwar draftees [illegible] tomorrow and [illegible] of the Army.

The Army threw the [illegible] party last night. It made them [illegible] a week's. Tough old sergeants jumped at their command. The brass stood on and saluted.

The party was all a part of the Army plan to prove there's a new look in soldiering. But it still was by the numbers. The 22-page script for the affair was big.

Confession Is Topic Of Discussion Period

"Confession" was the topic presented by Rev. Elmer Boyden last night, in the seventh discussion period of the Inquiry course being conducted in Moira hall by Rev. Boyden and Rev. Hugh Murphy, assistant pastors at St. Mary Catholic church.

After explaining the meaning of confession he presented the position of the penitent both as a penitent and in his relation to his confessor, and explained in detail the method of going to confession and what is expected of the penitent in order to obtain forgiveness and absolution, and to make spiritual progress in life.

Speaking from the standpoint of a priest Rev. Boyden told of the obligations and rules by which he is bound and illustrated his explanation by his own and the experiences of others.

Following the talk Rev. Boyden conducted a question hour. He spoke in the absence of Rev. Murphy who has been called out of the city by a death in his family.

LETTER FIGURES IN PROBE OF MURDER

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Nov 30—Police have made public a letter purportedly disclosing a romance between a young mother and a 25-year-old man who admitted slaying her baby boy.

Detective Sgt Walter Eitzmann said the letter is in writing similar to Mrs Betty Jean Nichols, whose two-year-old child, Joseph, was beaten to death in a St Louis hotel room.

William N. Pollard, a former mental patient, was arrested by the FBI in Chicago Nov 23, three days after the baby's body was found in a hotel room dresser drawer. Officers said he confessed beating the child to death when its cries annoyed him.

Eitzman said the letter was taken from Pollard's suitcase when he was arrested. The letter, released yesterday by Eitzmann, was addressed to "Dear Mother Pollard." Pollard's mother is Mrs. May Pollard of Cincinnati.

It read in part:

"I beg you, mom, to give me a chance to prove my deep love for your son and to prove I'll make him a good wife and you a good daughter, and, Mother Pollard, I know Bill loves me too He has showed me in so many ways He also loves my two sons as though they were his own."

Mrs. Nichols, 21, said she had entrusted her baby to Pollard's care at Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 11 while she went to visit her husband in a Chillicothe, O., hospital.

The home of George Just also was without gas but the family left for the evening and couldn't be reached for comment.

Loses Life in Attempt To Save Blind Woman

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Nov 30—A Miami railroad flagman died today from injuries suffered when he made a futile attempt to save an aged blind woman who walked into the path of a freight train.

In his rescue effort, William Marshall Weaver, 45, lost both of his feet when he slipped beneath the wheels of a boxcar.

The blind women Mrs Wilhelmina R Wittibschlager, 87, was killed yesterday when she apparently failed to hear a train whistle She walked across a street crossing into the path of the slow-moving freight train.

Weaver, who was riding on the back of the train, saw the woman as she started across the tracks He ran after her and made an attempt to pull her to safety, but both slipped beneath the wheels of the train The woman was decapitated and the car ran over Weaver's feet.

EXPECT NO DECISION ON PHONES FOR YEAR

Upper Man on Commission Hearing Rate Hike Plea.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Nov 30 - Ohio's utilities commissioners resumed hearing today the Ohio Bell Telephone Co's plea for a nine per cent increase in your telephone bills At least 15 cities are against it.

The three commissioners, Chairman Harry M Miller of Gallipolis, Harold L Mason of Upper Sandusky, and Paul E Weiland of Lancaster, must decide which side is right. They started hearing preliminary testimony yesterday, and will hear more and more and more for the next two weeks.

Then briefs will be filed. Utilities commission engineers will make their appraisals to stand against the company's own estimate of the value of its properties.

Possibly a year from now there will be a decision. It took about that long for the commission to get through the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co rate case, and only one city was interested. Then it can be appealed to the state supreme court.

Ohio Bell does not serve all of Ohio with telephones, nor does it serve half the state in area But its properties are scattered. They include all the big cities except Cincinnati, where the Affiliated Cincinnati & Suburban Belle Telephone Co is awaiting the outcome with interest. They include about two-thirds of the telephones in the state.

Also watching are the independent companies. Many of them have rate increase applications in for all or parts of their systems.

Yesterday's testimony largely covered ground already plowed in by the company's original application Randolph Eide of Cleveland, president of the big unit of the nationwide Bell system, told the commissioners a drop in "per telephone" net operating revenues was driving away investors who might add to the company's capital.

Crusade in Europe

Battle of the Bulge Ends in Victory For Allies; Toll Is High

* * *

By DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

(Copyright, 1948, by Doubleday and Company, Inc.)

21. Battle of the Bulge.

NORTH of the break-through three Allied armies and part of another occupied a great salient, extending in a rough semicircle over 250 miles of front. In the extreme north was the Twenty-first Army Group, facing northward and eastward along the lower Rhine and the Maas river. Next to the south was the U. S. Ninth Army, facing east. Next in line was that part of the U. S. First Army, now facing southward, which remained north of the penetration.

All the troops that could be spared from the First and Ninth Army fronts were being assembled to build up an east-west defensive line against the German assault. These two armies could, at that moment, provide no mobile reserve whatsoever.

* * *

THERE WAS, HOWEVER, an available reserve in Montgomery's Twenty-first Army Group. It was the British 30 Corps, then out of the line and available for duty anywhere on our great semicircular line in the north, any part of which might be attacked by the enemy.

The depth of the German advances on the eighteenth and nineteenth had broken all normal communications between Bradley's headquarters at Luxembourg and the headquarters of the Ninth and First Armies. For this reason it was completely impossible for Bradley to give to the attack on the southern shoulder the attention that I desired and at the same time keep properly in touch with the troops in the north who were called upon to meet the heaviest German blows.

To this whole situation only one solution seemed applicable. This was to place all troops in our northern salient under one commander. The only way of achieving the necessary unity was to place Montgomery temporarily in command of all the northern forces and direct Bradley to give his full attention to affairs on the south.

Late that evening Mr. Churchill telephoned to ask how the battle was going. I gave him the outline of the countermeasures already directed and informed him of the temporary command setup. He remarked that my plan would make the British reserve instantly available for use wherever needed, regardless of previously defined zones, and said, "I assure you that British troops will always deem it an honor to enter the same battle as their American friends."

The command plan worked and there was generally universal acceptance of its necessity at the time.

* * *

UNFORTUNATELY, after the battle was over a press conference held by Montgomery, supplemented by a number of press stories written by reporters attached to the Twenty-first Army Group, created the unfortunate impression among Americans that Montgomery was claiming he had moved in as the savior of the Americans. I do not believe that Montgomery meant his words as they sounded, but the mischief was not lessened thereby.

This incident caused me more distress and worry than did any similar one of the war. I doubt that Montgomery ever came to realize how deeply resentful some American commanders were. They believed that he had deliberately belittled them — and they were not slow to voice reciprocal scorn and contempt. It was a pity that such an incident had to mar the universal satisfaction in final success.

The defense of Bastogne was not only a spectacular feat of arms but had a great effect upon the outcome of the battle. Bastogne lay in the general path of the sector of advance of the German Fifth Panzer Army. The orders of that army, we later found, directed that Bastogne be by-passed if defended and, that the leading troops rush on to the west and then swing north to join in the major attack.

On the south Bradley had gotten off his attack on the morning of December 22. Progress was extremely slow and because of the snow-choked roads and fields maneuvers were difficult. It was the kind of fighting that General Patton distinctly disliked. It was slow, laborious going, with a sudden breakthrough an impossibility. Several times during the course of this attack General Patton called me to express his disappointment because he could go no faster; at the Verdun conference on the morning of the nineteenth he had implied, or even predicted, that he would get into Bastogne in his first rush. I replied that as long as he was advancing I was quite satisfied.

* * *

ONE OF THE BREAKS in our favor occurred December 23. This was a sudden, temporary clearing of the weather in the forward areas which released our air forces to plunge into the battle. From that moment onward, with some interruptions owing to bad weather, our battle-tested ground-air tactical team began again to function with its accustomed efficiency.

On the twenty-sixth Patton at last succeeded in getting a small column into Bastogne but he did so by a narrow neck along his left flank that gave us only precarious connection with the beleaguered garrison. It was after that date that the really hard fighting developed around Bastogne, both for the garrison itself and for the relieving troops.

I had planned to go to see Montgomery on the twenty-third but air travel in the rear areas was still not advisable and travel by road was slow and uncertain. Nevertheless, I decided to make a night run by railway to Brussels to see Montgomery and to return immediately upon completion of the conference.

The trip was further complicated by the extraordinary fears entertained by the Security Corps that enemy murderers were circulating in the area with the hope of killing Montgomery, Bradley, and me, and possibly others.

The report was astonishing. For several months I had been driving everywhere around France with no more protection than that provided by an orderly and an aide who habitually rode in the car with me. The story was brought to me on December 20 by a very agitated American colonel who was certain that he had complete and positive proof of the existence of such a plot. He outlined it in great detail and his conclusions were supported by other members of the Security Staff.

* * *

I DISCOUNTED the murder theory but agreed to move my quarters closer to headquarters. I was convinced that the Germans had too much need of their men to use them in roaming over a wide area in search of their intended victims, each of whom could presumably be replaced. I was irritated at the insistence of the Security Corps that I definitely circumscribe my freedom of movement, but I found that unless I conformed reasonably to their desires they merely used more men for protective measures.

THE BRAINS BEHIND THE PUSH. In Normandy to get a quick report on the new Allied offensive, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower (right), commander-in-chief of the Allied Expeditionary Forces, takes a stroll with Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery while they discuss Allied progress on the invasion front.

Consequently I promised to move out of headquarters only when necessary, provided they would run down protective detachments to the lowest so that soldiers could be used in the battle line and not in chasing me around.

They promised that the period of wakefulness would terminate December 23 but when I started to Brussels on December 22 I found the railway station swarming with Military Police and armed sentries. I sharply questioned the security officers about the use of men but they assured me that they had merely assembled in the station individuals who were normally on duty in that vicinity. However after we were well started on our journey I found that a squad of waiters was accompanying me.

I remarked to the senior officer in charge of the detail that I would consider it miraculous if any ambitious German murderer could determine in advance that he would find his prospective victim on a particular railway train, at a given moment, at a given spot in Europe. I told him to keep his men inside and to avoid exposing them to the bitter cold. He agreed in principle, but so greatly impressed was he by the strictness of the orders he had received that I doubt that I saved any of the men from useless and futile activity.

It was almost noon on the twenty-eighth before I made contact with Montgomery.

* * *

WE AGREED that the best thing to do in this situation was to strengthen the front reorganize units, and get thoroughly ready for a strong counterblow, in the meantime constantly preparing to beat off any German attack that might be launched. We agreed also that if no such German attack was launched Montgomery would begin his own offensive on the morning of January 3.

In the outcome there was no further German attack because of a change in enemy plans which concentrated his troops in the Bastogne area. The Allied troops on the northern flank used the intervening time to good advantage and on the morning of January 3 passed over to the offensive, in accordance with the plan adopted December 28.

On December 26, Patton had established tenuous contact with the German Bastogne garrison on the north the Germans had just been repulsed from a fully determined, and what proved to be their final, major effort to take that area. By this time the garrison at Bastogne was proving to be a serious thorn in the side of the German high command. As long as it was in our hands the German position to the west was not quite secure. The two pincers between Bastogne on the south and Stavelot on the north.

The French continued to worry about the safety of Strasbourg. On January 3, De Gaulle came to see me. I explained the situation to him and he agreed that my plan to save troops in that region was militarily sound. However, he pointed out that ever since the war of 1870 Strasbourg had been a symbol to the French people; he believed that even a temporary loss might result in complete national disheartenment and possibly in open riot. He brought a letter saying that he would have to act independently unless I made disposition for last-ditch defense of Strasbourg. I reminded him that the French Army would get no ammunition, supplies, or food unless it obeyed my orders, and pointedly told him that if the French Army had eliminated the Colmar pocket this situation would have have arisen.

* * *

AT FIRST GLANCE De Gaulle's argument seemed to be based upon political considerations, founded more on emotion than on logic and common sense. However, to me it became a military matter because of the possible effect on our lines of communication and supply, which stretched completely across France, from two directions.

[illegible] the 160th Infantry Division suffering the worst. Because of its exposed position it was not only in the light from the start, but many men were isolated and captured. The 28th Division was likewise roughly handled and the 7th Armored took serious losses during its gallant defense of St. Vith. Altogether, we calculated our losses at a total of 77,000 men, of whom about 8,000 were killed.

I WANTED TO PASS [illegible]

One of the great heroes of World War II [illegible] General Hodges' III Corps reached the River Rhine at Remagen to find the Ludendorff Bridge still standing. A German engineers using technical information which proved to be faulty, had earlier advised General Eisenhower that he could not make successful assaults over the Rhine until the first of May. So a successful crossing on a permanent bridge on March 7, made the end of the war seem suddenly just around the corner.

General Eisenhower tells in tomorrow's installment of Crusade in Europe, which will be published here, how he learned the great news, and what was done at once to cash in on the advantage it gave to the attackers of Hitler's fortress.

An Open Letter To Santa

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

A [illegible]

Hal Boyle

Me and [illegible] always believe in you.

It's [illegible] wearing things I really don't need. You know that's a tough way to go so don't want that. And you don't don't want it you even may have a dislike for it.

So this year when I ask Frankfraus said. Write Santa Claus what you want." I suddenly found myself stumped. For the life of me I couldn't think of anything I wanted. I told her so.

"Why that's impossible," she said. Everybody wants something for Christmas.

• • •

"I WANTED something last Christmas. I explained "and I wanted something every other Christmas I can remember. But this Christmas I don't want anything.

How about a half dozen nice white shirts."

"It was three years ago I wanted white shirts," I reminded her. "Now I don't like white shirts."

"How about a new suit"

"The only suit I want is one with a double breasted coat vest and two pairs of pants. But they don't make any like that anymore. So I don't want a suit for Christmas."

And so it went. Santa. Everything I thought up to put down on the list—I found, for one reason or another I no longer wanted. It didn't make sense at all. And yet in another way perhaps it did.

Neckties? Books? Nope. I haven't worn out the books or read all the neckties I got last year. A new car? Nope, again. It's easier to raise a kid in New York than it is to keep an automobile clean and happy.

I GOT MOST of the gadgets essential to civilized life—a ball point fountain pen that won't write a cigaret lighter that won't light an unbreakable wrist watch that's being repaired.

What else is there? Don't want a new silk robe or a fancy electric razor. Still have the old red wool robe and the cheap black plastic razor the Army gave me five years ago. Still like 'em, too. Still like my old Army shoes for that matter. Guess, if there's another war I'll get another pair free.

Nope, Santa there's no use in me trying any more. I can't think to save me, of a single thing I want for Christmas.

I know the stores are chockfull of things this year. But those are the things I wanted last year or some year before that, when they were scarce. I've worn out all those wants—whether or not I got what I wanted—and I haven't yet figured out any new wants to make me miserable.

I GUESS for the first time in my life Santa I'm a balanced man. What I can have I don't pine for—and what I might yearn for I don't know about.

So pass me by this Christmas season and give my share of the grab bag to somebody in Europe where people need more than they want instead of vice versa. Here sometimes it's a full days [illegible]

Regards to Mrs. [illegible] the Bear.

In Reducing Air Leakage!

HERE'S POSITIVE PROOF

It's one thing to quote facts and figures but another to back them up with concrete evidence!

Weather-Seal has that evidence . . . evidence that proves them five times more efficient in reducing air leakage than the nearest competitive product. It stems from one of the nation's foremost testing laboratories who subjected Weather-Seal combination storm windows to efficiency tests at varying wind velocities.

In turn, leading and mediocre competitive storm windows were tested under identical conditions. In all, more than a score of aluminum, steel and wood windows were analyzed. The results proved Weather-Seal five times more efficient . . . showed Weather-Seal capable of stopping air leakage by an amazing 95% at wind velocity of 25 miles per hour.

These test results were not surprising to Weather-Seal but they should be to competition and . . . to you. For your protection, we're going to continue making comparative tests between Weather-Seals and competition . . . are going to continue to back up every Weather-Seal claim with hard facts . . . straightforward figures! In the meantime, when others claim greater fuel economy through reduced air leakage, just remember . . . Weather-Seals have been proved five times more efficient than the nearest competitive combination storm window.

Double-M League Champions

THE Claridon High school six-man football team pictured above won the 1948 championship of the Double-M football league and went through the season undefeated, scoring a total of 231 points while holding their seven opponents to 82. Coached by A. B. Augenstein and Stanley Kirby, both graduates of Ohio Wesleyan university, the Claridon six opened with a 26-18 triumph over LaRue, probably their toughest opponent, and followed with victories over Marengo, 38-14, Caledonia, 31-6, Prospect, 59-12, Chesterville, 26-18, Edison, 42-14, and Johnsville, 9-0. Graduation will cut into next year's team heavily for six of the team—Jones, Fletcher, J. Chapman, Dickason, C. Ruth and Hempstead—are seniors.

Third row: Merrill Miller, back; Jack Griffith, back; Bernard Chapman, back; Dick Thomas, end, Raymond Auld, end; Ray Price, back; Andrew Chapman, back; and Dick French, end.

Wild Scramble for Big 9 Cage Crown Seen

Ohio State, Michigan, Minnesota and Illinois Appear Strongest.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—Basketball coaches of the Big Nine conference foresee the wildest championship scramble in years with four teams and possibly as many as seven, contending for the 1948-1949 cage crown.

They generally agreed in an Associated Press survey today that Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio State and Illinois appear to be the strongest threats in about that order. But Northwestern, Purdue and Indiana also were viewed as surprise packages.

A trend of all-around team improvement is prevalent throughout the Big Nine, making for an exciting, unpredictable campaign in which sophomores will play a prominent part.

Coaches' Outlook

With each conference team but Purdue opening the season in tune-up engagements this week, here is the coaches' outlook:

Tippy Dye, Ohio State—"We will do all right if we are not hurt too much at center. We lost 6 foot 6 inch Neil Johnston who signed a pro baseball contract. Our best replacement is Bob Raidiger, 6 foot, 4 inch center. Michigan probably will be the favorite, but we all know how hard it is to keep a championship team in the race for a second consecutive title."

Ozzie Cowles, Minnesota—"Only three men now appear sure of their positions—Jim McIntyre at center, Whitey Skoog and Walter Salovich, both forwards. The coming race will be very close. Almost all schools have veterans returning and some good sophomores. Michigan, Ohio State and Illinois possibly will have the edge."

Bud Foster, Wisconsin—"We have a better team as a unit than last season. But there will be no Bobby Cook on hand. Caliber of play will be high all through the conference."

Pops Harrison, Iowa—"I've been working players in different combinations. We will have to revise our tactics after losing a scorer like Murray Wier. The Big Nine should be the toughest it ever has been."

OSU Will Be Tough

Ernie McCoy, Michigan—"Illinois, Minnesota and Ohio State will be awfully tough. Ohio State was a fine club of sophomores last year. They should be hard to beat this time."

Mel Taube, Purdue—"Our prospects are about the same as last season. We'll have a sound veteran squad and possibly may break into the first division."

Harry Combes, Illinois—"We'll be faster this year, and, I think, a better team. We won't have as much height because we lost 6 foot 3 inch Jack Burmaster. But the sophomores coming up look good."

Branch McCracken, Indiana—"We finished at the bottom last season but we'll be improved this time with some good sophomore prospects fighting for places."

Dutch Lonborg, Northwestern—"We will be counting heavily on sophomores. Of the 21 players on the varsity squad, 14 are sophomores."

PITT TO PICK HEAD OF ATHLETICS TODAY

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30—Somebody is going to be handed a big job today—the task of pushing the University of Pittsburgh back up among the nation's football powers.

Only a few know now who has the inside track for that job which carries with it the title of Pitt athletic director. However, many believe the official finger will be pointed at Capt. Tom Hamilton, genial athletic director at the U. S. Naval Academy.

Tom isn't talking. Informed a few days ago he was the rumored first choice, he said merely:

"I'm flattered to be considered."

If Hamilton was the man favored at yesterday's meeting of Pitt's athletic committee and undergraduate council, there's a little question he'll have to work out with the Navy—his release from the gold braid.

A Pitt spokesman, who asked his name be withheld, said he didn't think Tom would have much trouble. After all, he's served 20 years with the Navy, including two tours of duty as Navy's grid coach.

Pitt had announced it would reveal its choice yesterday. However, Chancellor Rufus H. Fitzgerald said: "final decisions by all parties on this matter have not yet come about."

Yogi To Appear On Mat Program Thursday

How to shave with a blow torch, stack up on a bed of spikes and sew buttons on your skin will be demonstrated by R. C. Harrison, a yogi, as an added feature of the wrestling program Thursday, promoter Les Fishbaugh announced today.

The main feature, a tag team match between Dutch Shultz and Dale Wayne against Joe Wolfe and Steve Nenoff, will not pale by comparison to the demonstration of the above-mentioned arts, Fishbaugh promised. Two 30-minute matches will pit Dutch against Wolfe for a playoff of the draw they wrestled to last week, and Wayne against Nenoff.

A ten-minute preliminary will start the Armory program at 8:30.

SPARTA ADDED TO DOUBLE-M LEAGUE

A. B. Augenstein Named President of Six-Man Loop.

Sparta, a Morrow county high school, was admitted to the Double-M football league at a reorganization meeting of the loop last night at the Claridon high school.

Officers elected were A. B. Augenstein, superintendent of Claridon schools, president; John Florence, superintendent of Marengo, vice president; and Paul Furman, superintendent of Johnsville, secretary-treasurer. [illegible] school representatives attended the meeting which was held to elect officers.

With the addition of Sparta to the circuit the league will have nine schools in the Double-M league. A new football season next fall. A committee was appointed to select a suitable trophy for the 1948 champions. Claridon also was selected to present a trophy to both the first and second place teams next year. All Double-M coaches will meet in Mt. Gilead Dec. 18 to draw up a schedule for the 1949 gridiron season.

TOP ATHLETES TO BE HONORED IN TOLEDO

By International News Service

TOLEDO, Nov. 30—Nearly a score of the nation's top athletes will be honored at a banquet of champions in Toledo Dec. 16.

Charley Trippi, halfback of the Chicago Cardinals, Stan Musial, leading hitter of the National league, Dick Rifenberg, All-America candidate from Michigan, Bruce Harlan and Miller Anderson, Ohio State's Olympic diving champions, have added their names to the list.

Those who already have agreed to be present are Lou Boudreau, manager of the champion Cleveland Indians, Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves, Ben Hogan, Willie Turnesa and Frank Stranahan, golf champions.

George Mikan and Bob Kurland, basketball stars, Bob Mathias, Olympic decathlon champion, Guy Lombardo, speedboat king, Willie Hoppe, all-time billiard title older, Ted Schroder and Jack Kramer, tennis champions, and Buddy O'Connor, New York Rangers most valuable player in the National hockey league, also will be present.

CAPTAINS MOUNTAINEERS

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 30—Fred Schaus, high-scoring forward from Newark, O., will captain the West Virginia university basketball squad this season, Coach Lee Patton announced yesterday.

City's Junior Highs Launch Basketball Season This Week

[illegible] girls under way [illegible] Central, meeting [illegible] Wednesday night at the A. [illegible] a non-league game and then going to Vernon for the opening Tri-City loop contest.

There is a lot of height at Vernon this year. Francis Gerber and Bobby Miller, managers last year, are both six feet one and one half inches tall. Tom McClain is 5-11 and Coach Gaitnell says his shortest man is about that. Gaitnell regards the 14 eighth graders on the varsity squad, Boo Uhland and Don Hannon, as probable starters, both showing very scrappy. Vernon's team may prove clumsy at the start, but Coach Gaitnell thinks that they will have a pretty fair season.

Vernon Varsity

Central coach John Luginbuhl hopes to floor a good team this year. Although they got off to a late start because of the refinishing job on the Armory floor, Luginbuhl says his team is bigger and faster than last year's team which tied Bucyrus for the Tri-City league crown. Jim Russell is the only returning Wildcat letterman, and playing his third year of varsity basketball, he is expected to be the mainstay of the team. A lot is expected from Bob Apt who transferred from Ashley and Bob Bowman who comes from Martel, besides a wealth of local material. What Central lacks in height it hopes to make up in speed and aggressiveness.

BUCKEYE FROSH STAMP OSU BIG 9 CONTENDER IN 1949

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30 — Ohio State university's freshman football squad, one of the best to wear the Scarlet and Gray, stamp the Buckeyes as possible Western Conference champs in 1949.

Despite the loss of 10 seniors who walk the graduation gangplank, Coach Wes Fesler's rebuilding plans for 1949 will not be too difficult. The Bucks have accumulated a galaxy of scholastic stars that reads like a football player's who's who. If these highly-touted frosh stars live up to their advance billing the Bucks will be a team to contend with.

Ohio State is fortified with 13 all-state gridders and can field All-Ohio selections at every position. Capable reserves also are available.

Out-of-state prospects include Bill Todd, blockbusting guard from Beaver Falls, Pa.; Jim DeMeola, Coropolis, Pa., center, Don Cox, slick field-general from Pittsburgh; Al Chiappini, a hard, slashing runner from Jeanette, Pa.; Ned Scholosser, Garrett, Ind., tailback, and John Marold, Hemstead, N. Y., an all-scholastic center.

The "front-liners," an energetic alumni group, are responsible for coralling Ohio talent that might have otherwise strayed south of the border. They went after the top talent in Ohio a year ago and got most of it.

Although graduation claims Joe Whisler, Alex Verdova, Mike Cannavino, Dave Templeton, Ray DiPierro, Bob Dorsey, Howard Teifke, Chuck Renner, Brent Kirk and Chuck Pazio, the Buckeye coaching staff doesn't appear worried. Only at guards and wingback will the Buckeyes be hard hit.

Replacement for ex-captain Dave Templeton and Ray DiPierro at guards will be the most difficult gaps to fill, but the Bucks boast two outstanding prospects in Ed Forkner, 205-pounder from Middletown, and Thor Ronemus, of Springfield. Paul Phael, of Piqua, is another mobile, destructive play maker who will battle for a varsity berth.

Host of Tackles

The frosh have a host of stonewall defenders at the tackles. Howard Shuster of Elyria and Dick Logan of Mansfield top the list. Others are Bob Endres, of Cincinnati Hughes; Sherman Gandee of Akron Garfield; Joe Campanella of Cleveland Latin, and Julius Wittman of Mansfield.

It won't be easy to fill Joltin' Joe Whisler's shoes at fullback, but Dick Corless, pile-driving bucker who transferred from Michigan State; Jack Wagner, Piqua's all-state choice, and "Skippy" Doyle, the Pennsylvania sensation, will give Fred "Curly" Morrison, varsity holdover, a battle for his money.

Loss of Alex Verdova and Mike Cannavino at wingback will virtually leave the field wide open for the yearling. The freshmen present an impressive list of wingback candidates in Bob Morris, of Columbus Grandview; Bill Wetzel of Canton McKinley; and Earl Gentile, speedster from Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Fesler plans to shift the heralded Vic Janowicz, Elyria's triple-threat one-man breakaway artist, from tailback to wingback because of the wealth of material at the former post.

At left half, the Bucks can stand pat with holdovers Jerry Krall, Jimmy Clark, Rod Swinehart, Dick Siager and Karl Sturtz. However, fast and tricky Al Chiapinni and Ray Hamilton will be available to make them hustle.

Quarterback provides a wide-open battle. Pan Savic has vastly improved as a passer. Pete Perini and "Bucky" Wertz are great linebackers. Dick Widdoes has unusual poise for a sophomore.

However, the frosh prospects are equally impressive. All rated good passers, they include Bill Peterson of Cleveland Latin, Don Sox of Pittsburgh, and Al Hodous of Cleveland John Adams.

All-Ohioan Bob Heid of Fremont Ross, leads a talented bunch of freshmen centers. Walt Klevay of Independence, and Dick Phiel of Lorain, top the end candidates.

Michigan No. 1 College Team in Final AP Poll

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Mighty Michigan is college football's "team of the year."

As a climax to a series of dazzling successes, the Wolverines held the No. 1 place today in The Associated Press' final poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

They beat out their old rival for national honors—Notre Dame—in balloting that gave them 3,448 points to 3,325 for the Irish.

In the final regular season poll of 1947 it was Notre Dame on top with Michigan a close second.

This time, however, the unbeaten and untied Wolverines received 192 first place votes of the 387 casting ballots while the Irish drew only 97.

Notre Dame will try for its 22nd straight victory and its 28th game without a defeat Saturday against Southern California at Los Angeles.

North Carolina, with only a tie against its record, moved up to third position with 2,281 votes in the final standings as Army, surprisingly tied 21-21 by Navy, fell from third to sixth place with 1,799 ballots.

California held fourth with an even 2,000 and was followed in order by Oklahoma, 1,906, Army, Northwestern, 1,421, Georgia, 879, Oregon, 769 and Southern Methodist, 683.

Michigan completed its second perfect season and retained its Western Conference championship. The team's achievement was a credit to coach Ben Oosterbaan, who succeeded Fritz Crisler when the latter stepped up to athletic director at the end of the last campaign.

Seven of the first ten will see action in post-season bowl games.

North Carolina and Oklahoma clash in the Sugar bowl at New Orleans. California and Northwestern are Rose Bowl foes at Pasadena. Oregon and Southern Methodist meet in the Cotton bowl at Dallas. Georgia opposes Texas, which didn't land in the first twenty, in the Orange bowl at Miami.

Miami To Vote On Basin Bowl Bid Today

By International News Service

OXFORD, O., Nov. 30—The Miami Redskins were to hold their second pow-wow late today to decide whether to accept an invitation and invade hostile Texas territory to play in the Basin bowl at Odessa.

The squad first met yesterday afternoon but postponed a decision in the absence of coach George Blackburn, called away to a speaking engagement at Galion.

Tot Shows 'Em How To Pick Grid Winners

By The Associated Press

WILLOUGHBY, O., Nov. 30—How to pick football winners:

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Huntington say they asked their daughter, Janice, to repeat back one team of each game and wrote that down. Then they sent her list to the Lake county News Herald weekly football contest.

The paper awarded Janice $25 today for picking 16 winners out of 20 games. She will be two years old in February.

EASY FOR LOUIS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 30 — An overweight Joe Louis hardly worked up a sweat here last night as he continued his exhibition tour with four easy rounds against Oakland Billy Smith of Cincinnati. The heavyweight champ, who outweighed Smith [illegible] pounds to 170, seldom opened up with any hard blows. And Smith, of course, could do nothing with boxing's No. 1 man. There were no knockdowns.

Old Handbill Advertises Bargains in Essex in 1860

[illegible] Found by C N Sautter

The broadside two feet wide and three feet high, was found by Cloyd N Sautter of 243 Summit street a retired postoffice employee Mr Sautter specializes in collecting old dime novels and found the 1860 ad when he was going through a pile of old papers

At the top of the ad is a cartoon showing a Negro rushing toward W H Mohr and Co with another load of merchandise direct from New York on his back The fellow is so excited about the terrific bargains he bowls over an innocent bystander The stepped on one does not protest In fact he apologizes for being in the way of transporting of the precious cargo

On the left side of the cartoon a portly gentleman is pictured telling his wife and daughter that they should go to Mohr's for "decent clothing No doubt what they are wearing was purchased at a rival store

The title of the ad is in large, bold type at the top of the sheet and seems to introduce a sermon It reads, "Persevere and Prosper" At the bottom is shown a train puffing along at top speed and a man beating a horse along a dirt road And what are they carrying in such great haste? Ah, you guessed it—clothing for Mohr and Co

The Catch Line

The copy writer will now turn over in his grave W H Mohr suit and all as we quote the ads punch line "So if you want to buy or sell anything go to the WELL-KNOWN OLD CHEAP STORE NUMBER ONE of W H Mohr and Co, Essex, Ohio, and see the GLORIOUS effect of the One Price and Ready Pay System"

Then the ad closes with a moral, a warning and a couple of obvious plugs for the company that paid for the broadside "We know there are wolves in sheeps clothing prowling around seeking

AMERICAN TO PICK CHAMPION STEER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—For the first time since the start of the International Livestock Exposition in 1900 an American today will have the honor of selecting the grand champion steer

Dr. A D Webbert of Kansas State college, Mannattan, Kan, a judging expert of long experience, will select the finest animal at the 49th exposition Previously leading cattlemen from abroad have been called to Chicago to make the final selection

Show officials said that it is a belief among cattlemen today that world feeding conditions being what they are, only United States beef raisers are familiar with the highest type of fatted cattle

Selection of the grand champion steer is the outstanding event of the week long show, now in its fourth day Several breed champions were named yesterday

Winners in the market class wooled champion fleece, University of Wyoming. Reserve champion, Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Columbus.

Champion certified hybrid shelled corn—Henry Leitschuh, Sleepy Eye, Minn Reserve champion, Johnnie H Baker and Sons, Hamilton, O.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—The stock market displayed a little stability at the opening today after yesterday's decline to the lowest average level since mid-March.

A number of key issues moved up fractionally, although at the same time a good handful of minus signs also appeared.

U. S. Steel started ¼ point higher on a deal of 1,000 shares and Bethlehem Steel advanced ⅜ on transfer of 1,200 shares.

Others higher included Anaconda Copper, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Westinghouse Electric and International Telephone.

Among the losers were American Telephone, Air Reduction, Du Pont, General Motors, American Smelting, Chesapeake & Ohio and Goodrich.

200 ATTEND FARM MEETING

Production Credit Association Session Held at Pleasant Township School.

Approximately 200 stockholders in the Marion Production Credit association and their families, attended a sectional meeting at Pleasant Township school Monday night. This was the third of a series of five meetings in counties included in the Marion section. Meetings have been held in Crawford and Harding counties, tonight's meeting will be in Morrow county, and Thursday night, Wyandot county.

Principal topic was Complete Farmer Ownership for Production Credit Associations," handled by a discussion panel. Its object was to bring out "need and reasons for farmer ownership,' and following general discussion the stockholders voted on a resolution to make the Marion association completely farmer owned. As result of this action, before stock can be sold the recommended resolution must be adopted by the board of the association approved by the district president at Louisville, Ky., and by a majority of stockholders, it was explained, with the other counties to consider such resolution in their turn at their own meetings.

A report of the nominating committee, made by Ralph Neff field man for Crawford county listed H. I. Swalley and Wesley C. Gregg to succeed themselves as directors of the association. They are the two directors whose terms expire Jan. 1, and were reelected by acclamation. Nominating committee's report will be made at the remaining county meetings for action there also.

Directing the panel discussion was John Grierson, association supervisor of Production Credit associations from district headquarters at Louisville, and other members of the group included Mr. Swalley, president of the Marion association, H. A. Mayers, association director from Marion county, Marion Clark, secretary-treasurer, John Benson, field man out of the central office, and stockholders, George Schertzer of near Green Camp and Gomer Johnson of New Bloomington.

Following the business session, entertainment was by an orchestra from Morrow county, and refreshments were served.

Surviving are eight children three sisters, and four brothers including his brother here.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 9 a. m. in Holy Rosary Catholic church at St. Marys. Burial will be there. The body is at Vore and Folk funeral home in St. Marys.

Mrs. J. M. Martin

CALEDONIA—Mrs. Anna Martin, 50, wife of John M. Martin of one and one-half miles southwest of Martel, died of a heart ailment at 8 a. m. Monday in a hospital at Columbus. She had been ill seven years.

Born April 20, 1898, to Stewart and Temperance Pierce McGinty, she was married Oct. 7, 1922, in Marion, to Mr. Martin. The family moved to Martel from Marion several years ago.

Surviving with the husband are a son, John M. Martin Jr., at home, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. William Zimmerman of Stewart, O.; R. U. McGinty of Toledo, Donald McGinty of Corvallis, Ore.; Mrs. Laura Dominy of Toledo, Mrs. Grace Partlow of Lincoln avenue, Mrs. Lulu Myers of 841 Woodrow avenue and R. A. McGinty of North Main street, Marion. Mrs. Martin was a member of the Methodist church at Martel.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Timson Allen funeral home with Rev. Paul Brost, pastor of the Martel Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Mrs. Harriett L. Young

PROSPECT—Mrs. Harriet L. Young, 84, wife of E. J. Young of East Water street, died at her home at 6:45 p. m. yesterday after an illness of 10 weeks.

She was born July 29, 1864, the daughter of Morris and Margaret Wasson Humphrey of Radnor.

She was married to Mr. Young Jan. 16, 1891. They have resided in Prospect since 1910, coming here from Radnor.

Mrs. Young was a lifelong member of the Radnor Presbyterian church. She is survived by her husband and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. from the home with Rev. Edgar Guenther officiating. Interment will be in Prospect cemetery. Friends may call at the home after 7 p. m. today.

Harry T. Fernbaugh

UPPER SANDUSKY — Services at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Bringman & Co. funeral home here, with the Rev. Norman Folk in charge, will be held for Harry Tobias Fernbaugh, 78, who died Saturday night at his lifetime home three miles east of Upper Sandusky.

Retired from farming several years ago, Mr. Fernbaugh had been in failing health for the past two years. Burial will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

He was born April 20, 1870, in Wyandot county, to William and Mary Catherine Tobias Fernbaugh. He was united in marriage Nov. 18, 1896 at Upper Sandusky, with Miss Emma Caroline Swinehart. She survives with two daughters, Mrs. Ben Dirmeyer of Nevada and Mrs. Adrian Courtad of Upper Sandusky, four grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Burris of Erie, Pa., and a foster brother, James B. George of Findlay.

Mr. Fernbaugh, when a young man, taught in several of the one room schools then in session in the county. Later he followed the occupation of farming. He was a member of the Rock Run Church of God.

Harvey L. Almendinger

PROSPECT—Harvey L. Almendinger 68, of New man road, Pleasant township, died at 11:30 a. m. yesterday at his home of a heart attack after finishing his morning's work on his farm.

He was born March 19, 1880, on the farm on which he died, the son of Jacob and Kathryn Wasserbeck Almendinger.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Della Almendinger, at the family home and by one brother, Joseph L. Almendinger of Waldo township, and several nieces and nephews.

He was a lifelong member of the Prospect Baptist church. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday at the church with Rev. A. O. Long officiating. Interment will be in the Prospect cemetery. COLD DEEPENS DIXIE DISTRESS

Temperatures in 30's Add Further Discomfort to Rain-Flooded South.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 — Colder weather moved into the flooded areas of the southland today, adding further discomfort to the many state homeless by rain-flooded rivers.

Skies were mostly clear over the flood regions of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee but temperatures in parts of those and other southern states dropped. Readings in the 30's were reported in parts of Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee while Vicksburg, Miss., had a low of 28 today.

No heavy rain was forecast in the swollen river flood crests moved downstream, carrying the torrents from the mid and southern parts of Georgia and Alabama. Flood warnings also were posted from the Georgia to southern Alabama. Flood waters poured over thousands of acres of lowland in South Carolina.

Across the country, generally fair and colder weather prevailed today. The mercury dipped near the zero mark in some parts of the country's coldest belt, which extended from the Rockies over the north central region. Low marks included 3 above at Butte, Mont., and Eagle, Colo. The cooler weather extended into northern Texas. There was some light snow in northern Minnesota and blustery weather was reported along the Washington coast.

Snow fell in some eastern areas yesterday, including New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The fall measured four inches in western Maryland but crews of workmen kept highways open.

A power shortage developed in Georgia due to the flood waters and mechanical failures. In Macon, Ga., the swollen Ocmulgee river disrupted operation of five of the city's 10 pumping station filters and industries were ordered to halt using water. The Ocmulgee reached a record 28 feet and many families were evacuated. Dames Ferry and Pope's Ferry, two nearby communities, were reported completely isolated by the flood waters.

A statewide appeal was made by the Georgia Power Co. for its users to curtail electric consumption. Gasoline buses were substituted for electric-powered trackless trolleys in Atlanta.

Develop Motor Oil For 60-Below Cold

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30—Development of an automobile motor oil capable of remaining fluid in temperatures down to 60 degrees below zero was announced today by MacMillan Petroleum Corp.

The new product, developed by the company's oil technologists, will aid starting and lubrication in sub-zero climate, L. L. Rebber, MacMillan's director of research, said. He said it is fortified against oxidization, foaming and varnish while retaining film strength and penetrating qualities.

One Traffic Accident On Police List Today

Only one traffic accident and one traffic arrest were reported today by city police.

A car driven by Wilbur L. Clark, 39, of 275 Leader street collided with a car driven by Andrew E. Knapp, 57, of 407 East Center street at West Church street and Hughes Court at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. According to police reports only slight damage resulted.

Eugene Griffith, 20, of Lancaster, O., was arrested at 4:07 a. m. today on North Main street on a charge of speeding. He was released under $25 bond pending his appearance in municipal court today.

The New Governors

N. C. Rural Folks Pin Hopes on Farmer Scott

(One of a series of 22 articles on the governors chosen in the November election.)

By The Associated Press

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 30 — North Carolina farmers feel they are going to have a friend in the governor's mansion.

William Kerr Scott is a dairy farmer. He resigned after 11 years as state commissioner of agriculture to enter the race for governor.

During the campaign Scott promised that as governor he would give farmers a better representation on state boards so that the state agencies would not be run by city boards to get the farmers out of the red.

Scott attacked the state's tax system, charging that through it the state was getting more than its share of the tax money. He said the budget commission be asked to make room for more than 10 per cent increases on paving 12,000 miles of road and "treating" 6,000 more miles within four years so that buses can get over them in all kinds of weather.

He was told the paving alone would cost upwards of $240,000,000. He said he had not decided how to finance the road program but "it will be either by an increase in the gasoline tax, a bond issue or a combination of the two."

Motorists now pay a gasoline levy of six cents a gallon.

In the campaign Scott also promised to work for higher salaries for school teachers, state aid to local units in building schools and elimination of the state-wide referendum on the state's local option law.

At 52 Scott is plain-spoken and forceful. He has a reputation for saying what he thinks and meaning what he says.

His victory in the Democratic primary was about as big an upset in the state as President Truman's in the general election was in the nation. Scott entered the race late when virtually the entire state Democratic organization was lined up behind State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson.

After a whirlwind seven-week campaign, Scott trailed Johnson by about 8,000 votes in the first primaries and then won handily in the runoff.

CHALK ARTIST COMING — George P. Woodward, Columbus chalk artist shown as he sketched one of his drawings, will be at the Church of the Nazarene in East Pleasant for a series of services beginning Wednesday night. He and his wife, known as the singing and talking Woodwards, will be the guests of Rev. C. A. Newcome, pastor of the church. The services will be held through Dec. 12, excepting Saturday nights. For the past 18 years Rev. Woodward has been conducting evangelistic services in various parts of this country combining his "seeing and hearing" presentation of the Gospel message. The public will be welcome to attend the services, Rev. Newcome stated.

Settle $34,187 Bucyrus Livestock Damage Suit

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Settlement of the $34,187 damage suit brought against the New York Central Railroad by James Johnson, local livestock dealer, in connection with the death of 587 hogs was announced today.

Terms of the settlement were not made public but the action has been dismissed.

Johnson's petition charged that 587 of a consignment of 1,890 hogs were found dead in railroad cars here on July 26, 1947. They had been shipped from an Iowa dealer.

The incident had repercussions in City Council when irate east side residents, aroused over the stench created by the dead animals, protested to councilmen.

UNTOUCHABILITY OUT

CRASH VICTIMS STILL CRITICAL

Condition of Five Unchanged, Marion City Hospital Reports.

The condition of the five persons injured in Sunday night's rail train accident at the Erie crossing on North Main street remains unchanged, City hospital attendants reported today.

Mrs. Norma Shinn, 19, of Fostoria, wife of the driver of the car in the only accident victim who has not regained consciousness as yet, a hospital spokesman said. Mrs. Shinn's condition has remained critical ever since her arrival at the hospital. She suffered a skull fracture and lacerations of both legs in the auto-train accident.

Mrs. Shinn's husband, Early Woodrow Shinn, 29, driver of the car remains in a serious condition with lacerations of the face and a possible fractured skull.

Darrel Shinn, 19, of near Tiffin is in a critical condition with a skull fracture and severe lacerations of the face. Police investigators at the scene of the accident who helped remove Darrel Shinn, who was pinned next to the locomotive by the car in which he was riding, after being thrown from it, expressed surprise today at his survival. A veteran member of the police traffic accident squad characterized Darrel Shinn as one of the worst injured accident victims seen in his long experience on the police force.

A police spokesman said today Virgil Sayre of Tiffin, only accident victim conscious when police arrived, stated the party was enroute home from a Thanksgiving visit to the home of relatives in West Virginia when the accident occurred. Sayre's condition and that of his wife, Mrs. Naomi Sayre, 22, both of near Tiffin, remained "fair" today. Sayre suffered a fractured arm, concussion, lacerations of the face and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Naomi Sayre suffered a fractured skull, multiple lacerations of the face, and concussion. Both the Sayres were riding in the back seat of the car when the accident occurred.

GALION MAN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

William Rush of near Galion suffered leg injuries in a collision four miles south of Galion at 3 p. m. yesterday, the highway patrol reports. He was taken by Timson-Allen ambulance of Caledonia to City hospital where his condition was reported as "fairly good" today.

John Kreuger of near Mt. Gilead, driver of the other car was arrested for failure to yield the right of way. He was fined $10 and costs in Mt. Gilead mayor's court. The collision occurred at the intersection of South Market street road and county road 49. Both vehicles were damaged.

Two other traffic accidents and four arrests for traffic violations were reported by the patrol.

Jesse Snoddy of near Mt. Gilead was arrested by the highway patrol on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol after an accident on route 42 at 10:35 p. m. last night. He is being held in Morrow county jail pending his appearance in Mt. Gilead mayor's court today.

The patrol reports that Snoddy, traveling south, struck the rear of a car driven by Rodney Morris of Washington C. H., seven miles east of Mt. Gilead. Damage to the vehicle was minor.

At 7:35 p. m. last night cars driven by Clarence Sipe of 260 Midlam avenue and Harold Fremont Jr. of near Marion collided on route 23 just north of Marion. Both vehicles were damaged slightly.

George Byrd of Worthington was fined $10 and costs by Delaware mayor's court for speeding on route 23. He was arrested in Delaware county last night.

Sherwood Moler of near Sycamore was arrested on route 103 at 10 p. m. last night on a charge of driving with insufficient lights. He was issued a citation to appear in Upper Sandusky mayor's court tonight.

At 3:30 a. m. this morning Russell Bishop of Findlay was arrested on a charge of losing some of his load of hay off his truck on route 23 at the southern Marion city limits. He posted bond for his appearance in municipal court today.

FBI AGENT SPEAKS AT LIONS MEETING

Robert Pumphry of Mansfield Explains Agent's Duties.

Guest speaker at the Lions club weekly luncheon meeting Monday at Hotel Harding was Robert Pumphry of Mansfield, an agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation working out of the Cleveland office.

Mr. Pumphry, who became associated with the FBI in 1940, explained some of his duties as a federal agent, the work of the FBI in fingerprinting, the operation of FBI laboratories and the selection of FBI personnel.

To become an agent, Mr. Pumphry said, a man must be between the ages of 25 and 40 and he must be a college graduate. After first taking a course in an FBI school, the investigator is then sent out to one of the 54 field offices for further training.

Leadership Vacuum

GOVERNOR DEWEY and his family are back home after a post-election vacation in Arizona. Newsmen have been told that the governor has no comment to make at this time about politics. He has declared, however, that he has made his last bid for the presidency.

While the leadership vacuum is not uncommon in the political party that loses a national election, the fact it has happened before does not make it good. The circumstances of party organization, which, is achieved only for campaign purposes every four years and fades thereafter unless the party wins, have become a grave problem for Republicans.

After Herbert Hoover's defeat in 1932, the Republican party floundered until the 1936 convention nominated Alfred M. Landon. When Mr. Landon went down to defeat, floundering was resumed until Wendell Willkie captured the nomination in 1940. His party leadership dwindled after his defeat, and for the next three and a-half years there again was a vacuum. Mr. Dewey and his organization filled the vacuum in 1944, but in spite of the fact the New York governor was to capture the nomination in 1948 and laid his plans with a second nomination in mind he exerted almost no influence in the interim.

The consequence of this shortcoming has been to force the party to rely on its members in congress for policy between national elections, and it goes without saying that they were under the handicap of doing this job as members of a legislative opposition. That is, they were unable to make affirmative policy until they gained control of the 80th congress. Even then they were in the position of opposing Mr. Truman's executive leadership, a disadvantage he exploited successfully in his campaign "against the 80th congress," ignoring Mr. Dewey.

A recent proposal by Philip Willkie of Indiana that the Republican party should hold annual conventions for the preparation of policy had much common sense behind it. Governor Dewey's withdrawal from his post of leadership again leaves the party high and dry, to the consternation of the millions who see it in their only chance to check the national drift toward state socialism.

Atlantic Pact

EVERY new weapon of war creates a counter-weapon to offset it, according to a military axiom. Perhaps the same axiom covers weapons used in cold war.

The Atlantic pact being formed by Britain, France and the Benelux countries pledges mutual armed assistance in case of attack and provides for a joint military and political board. If the United States, Canada and the Latin American countries join it, thereby making it a plan of security for the main Atlantic community, Russia will have an answer to its challenge. Some observers are calling the pact the greatest stabilizing force ever known in world politics, to offset possibly the greatest disruptive force ever known in world politics.

The pact would be open, also, to small countries like Ireland, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Sweden, Norway and Denmark—a potential alliance of such magnitude, with the United States as the heart of its military power, that Russian schemes of piecemeal conquest would be futile.

Forrestal's Misgiving

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE FORRESTAL'S explanation of the troubles he is having with unification of national defense should be made required reading for all American taxpayers. The explanation appears in the Saturday Evening Post.

Mr. Forrestal thinks unification is making fair progress, nevertheless. He hopes the rate of progress may be accelerated because—and this is why taxpayers should know what he has to say—the cost of defense without more coordination than exists now threatens to become prohibitive.

It could destroy the United States, he believes. This could happen because each of the armed services wants maximum appropriations that would add up to a crushing burden if they were authorized. Estimated needs for the current year run to $30,000,000,000. This does not include estimates for helping to arm a western European Union, or to aid China. Mr. Forrestal's job is to keep the total as close to $15,000,000,000 as possible, a figure that would enable the government to evade deficit financing.

The United States in recent years has drifted into an attitude of foolish over-confidence about its ability to withstand any drain on its resources for military purposes. Mr. Forrestal does not share this attitude. He is afraid that "shooting the works" might easily turn out to be a means of shooting Uncle Sam instead. His apprehension, together with recent assurances that he would like to stay on the job, will be reassuring to taxpayers facing the prospect of wartime rates for an indefinite time to come.

The Wallace Influence

By David Lowrence

Voters Deserted Third Party as Truman Turned Left

WASHINGTON

DID the supporters of Henry Wallace win the election for President Truman? No such question would even have been asked two weeks ago, but judging by the way some Democratic leaders are beginning to interpret the election as a decided turn to the "left," a persuasive case now can be built for the thesis that the Wallace campaign drove Mr. Truman over to the "left wing" and that the Wallace supporters were so pleased with the position taken by Truman on public issues that they went back to the Democratic party and failed to vote for a third-party ticket.

Dr. Gallup and others who studied political trends in past elections were virtually agreed last summer that if the Wallace ticket were not in the field the contest would be a "horse race." The supposition that the Wallace vote would be large started in June but gradually the estimates were diminished and had the polls been continued until the day before election instead of being stopped two weeks previously, the almost complete evaporation of the third-party vote would have been discerned.

• • •

SINCE THE MARGIN was narrow in many states, the Wallace vote was still enough to give New York State to Dewey but just enough on the other hand to turn Illinois to Truman because no place was afforded on the Illinois ballot for a Wallace vote. In California the Wallace vote fell far below expectations and was predominantly pro-Truman in the end. Given a choice as between Truman or Dewey to Wallace, voters chose Truman.

To interpret the mandate fairly, therefore, a Henry Wallace faction must be credited with a major part in the victory—unless, of course, it turns out that Mr. Truman did not mean what he said on the stump. Examining the Wallace campaign from pre-convention days and also the third-party platform proposals which were publicized widely among the radicals it will be found that restoration of the excess-profits tax, the drive for more subsidies to special groups and for public ownership of important industries were demands which the Wallace campaign emphasized. When Mr. Truman started in the autumn his campaign against Wall Street and the "moneyed interests" he soon was making better "left wing" speeches of the class-warfare type than Wallace was making.

On the labor issue, the Wallace supporters wanted the Taft-Hartley act destroyed and a one-sided law depriving management of all its essential rights put on the statute books. There is every indication that the Wallace supporters will now gain their point, including the elimination of anti-Communist affidavit requirement which had been aimed at Communist influence in labor unions.

• • •

ON INTERNATIONAL relations, Wallace won his major victory. He cried out during the campaign that military men were dictating American foreign policy and that a conciliatory policy toward Russia had been abandoned. Then, at a dramatic moment in the campaign, Mr. Truman decided to carry favor with the critics of his foreign policy. He was ready to bypass the United Nations and, without consulting his secretary of state, was arranging to send Chief Justice Vinson to Russian on a peace-making mission.

When General Marshall protested, the plan was dropped temporarily but the President in his speeches in the latter part of the campaign indicated that the idea might be revived at any time. This was pleasing news to the Wallace supporters who flocked to the Truman standard in the last few days of the campaign. Incidentally, the general now is on his way out of the secretaryship of state.

Mr. Wallace can console himself with the thought that while he did not poll many votes for his ticket he did what many a third-party candidate has done before — influence the course of one or the other of the major party candidates.

• • •

TODAY MANY Democrats who were inclined before election to favor a middle-of-the-road policy on economic issues are talking radical. They talk as if Mr. Wallace was their true leader. They are talking as Phil Murray of the CIO talks, as if the risk-capital system must give away now to a government-regulated economy and that the profits of industry either must be taxed away or handed over to the workers in the form of higher and higher wages. If President Truman concludes that the close election of November second means that he got a "mandate" to restore the one-sided Wagner labor relations act and the excess-profits tax and extend the government's authority over the national economy, the third-party radicals will be vindicated. In all fairness, then, Henry Wallace—whatever his intentions really were—should be given credit for having influenced not only the outcome of the election but the course of economic history in America for years to come.

New Truman Program

By Raymond Moley

IN ALL this vale of transitory things the most fleeting is a campaign speech. This is not, as many people believe, because candidates do not tell the truth. It is because campaign oratory deals with a rapidly changing world and generally looks backward at things as they were. Promises, therefore, are hitched to conditions which voters have already felt and seen, and often have little application to the world as it is the morning after election.

So it seems to be with President Truman's campaign against inflation. Probably a number of the millions who voted for him did so because they expected him to bring prices down, set up controls and improve the purchasing power of wages. Other millions did so because they expected him to uphold the farmer's minimum prices. The pay-off is now due. And as an honest man, the President expects to pay.

• • •

BUT A LOT HAS happened since his speeches were made. The prediction, made in this column in September, that price increases for the time being had probably run their course has been verified. That, I may add, is a prediction for which there are no regrets. The commodity price level of the New York Journal of Commerce registered a drop from more than 320 in January to 278 on November 24. It is now evident that for the time being the cost-of-living index will show no seriously rising trend. For the first time it shows a decline.

Perhaps had the Republican candidate appreciated the argument why this would take place and had he known the October price index and made it known to others, he might have been spared disaster. But Truman luckily was spared that attack and luckily he may now approach his task, which once seemed impossible, with confidence of success.

• • •

DR. EDWIN C. NOURSE, chairman of the President's council of economic advisers, is to direct the administration's drive to fulfill the campaign promises on prices. The announcement of the Nourse appointment indicates a degree of caution which must spring from the changed condition. Nourse is to head a team of responsible cabinet members and department heads. The job is not being assigned to the council of economic advisers, on which Leon Keyserling is an influential member and whose views have been alarming to conservative people. Apparently Keyserling and his views are to be kept in the background.

There seems to be no disposition to revive wartime controls. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, who will serve on the Nourse team, has never been enthusiastic about controls. Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has at various times expressed the thought that less food should be exported, thus to keep down prices. On the other hand, Secretary of Labor Tobin has greatly encouraged labor in its drive for a fourth round of wage increases.

• • •

AND CHESTER BOWLES, former champion of controls and now governor-elect of Connecticut, says that nothing like the old OPA is to be expected.

What we are witnessing is an administration hurriedly taking note of changing conditions and seeking means to avoid a straight repudiation of campaign promises, while giving considerable leeway to visible natural forces to bring prices under control. This is a measure of reassurance to those who, immediately after the election, were in a panic about the months ahead.

Solving the Poll Tax Issue

From the Dallas News

SOME Democratic party leaders are saying that "much heat can be taken off the issue in Congress" if the seven southern states having the poll tax as a requisite for voting will repeal these provisions.

This is a little like advising the South to give up to the enemy before he captures us. Yet there is a measure of common sense and justice behind the suggestion as it might apply to several issues involving southern political practice and tradition, especially those affecting the Negro. Take the matter of segregation of races in our schools. If the southern states would really give the Negroes equal educational opportunity, the agitation to have Negroes admitted to white schools would subside.

The issue involving the poll tax as a requirement for voting is much misunderstood in the North. Many people there think that a Negro is not allowed to pay a poll tax. Even among those agitators who understand it, it is distorted in public presentation for the purpose of political exploitation. The fact is that the poll tax existed in Texas long before it was made a requisite for voting. It was made a requirement for voting largely as part of an effort to stop the buying of votes.

Along with improvement of Negro educational facilities, Texas should "take off the heat" by revising its poll tax by constitutional amendment. While there is much smoke and little fire in present criticism of the poll tax most of this could be refuted by a simple shift in terminology. Call it a registration fee. (Most of the folks of the New Deal reform movements are strong for both registration and fees, as a general principle.)

Cut the price to half or less and let it apply to either education, as two thirds now applies, or to the expense of holding the primary elections. This would enable a poor man to run for office without bankrupting himself or making commitments to those who put up the money for his filing fee. Then put the date of registration far enough ahead of the usual election dates to guarantee that the registering citizen has a civic interest above that of the monetary appeal of some demagog. Many fair-minded people will oppose this last suggestion, but the South's greatest demagog, Huey Long, was not without his own reasons in having the poll tax repealed in Louisiana.

Mme. Chiang Kai-shek

By George E. Sokolsky

IT HAS been announced that Madame Chiang Kai-Shek is planning to plead personally her country's cause in Washington. Although there are many slips between a plan and its implementation, I write about it hurriedly because that particular lady, having reached a decision, is likely to be here before the ink is dry on this article.

Madame Chiang is a product of American education and in that sense is as American as any girl who, after school, buys a coke at a corner drugstore. I first met her after she returned to China from Wellesley where she studied. But it was not at Wellesley that she captured the nature of America. As a young girl she was sent by her parents to Macon, Ga., to stay with Bishop Ainsworth of the Southern Methodist church and to receive her pre-college work in our schools.

Her father had spent a good part of his life in this country, particularly in the South. An extraordinary man, Charles Jones Soong had started his career on the United States revenue cutter, Colfax. He was baptized in the Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal church of Wilmington, N. C., and had studied at Trinity college, which is now Duke university. He returned to China with a theological degree from Vanderbilt university in 1885 as an English teacher. A man of action; he established a printing house in Shanghai to publish Bibles; He was on the organization committee of the first YMCA in China; he eventually became secretary and treasurer of the revolutionary movement to liberate China from the Manchus, headed by Sun Yat-Sen.

• • •

MEI-LING SOONG, now the wife of President Chiang Kai-Shek, possesses many of her father's qualities: she is a woman of strong convictions with a great capacity for decisive action; she is a brilliant English scholar, using the language with color and precision; she is deeply, sincerely and movingly religious. And she has always been loyal to her second home, the United States.

The lady is witty and her sharp response to a phrase often surprises because it is unexpected. She and Harry Truman should get on well together, particularly if they are ever able to talk outside of protocol. They are both experts in "giving them hell," in which art the President has beyond doubt proved himself. Madame Chiang can paint a picture of the world effect of a defeat of China by Soviet Russia in language accurate and pungent.

This is something that ought to be known: when Chiang Kai-Shek was a young man, he studied military science in Japan, and later, for a short time, in the Red army schools in Russia. The strongest influences upon him, particularly during the revlutionary days from 1924 to 1927, were Russian and Communist. In fact, when he started his career, it was at the head of the Whampoa Military academy, a Red army school near Canton, and he became the head of the revolutionary army through the support of the Russians who were then seeking to conquer China.

• • •

CHIANG'S RENUNCIATION of the Russians and the Communists was his own. It came out of his realization that a foreign country was seeking to seize his country by what was then a novel device but has now become standard throughout the world. It was, however, after his marriage to Mei-Ling that he came to know of the western world, of America, of Christianity. She brought into his life an intimate and close appreciation of our ways.

When Madame Chiang was here in the war years, the smear machine was active in its miserable attacks upon a fine and brilliant woman. Some were particularly nasty in the realm of gossip usually reserved for the ladies of the movies. None of it was true. President and Madame Chiang found affection and admiration in courtship and marriage and in a mutual labor for their country. Perhaps some were surprised that the lady does speak up, disappointing those who expect the shy, frightened sterotype of the silent Oriental spouse. In the first place, the sterotype is false, because Chinese women are not very different from our own; and in the second place, Mei-Ling Soong was reared in this country. Americans can readily take her for a fellow-countrywoman.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

How Are You Fixed for Weather?

Weather forecasting now has become a business. Companies are selling predictions to railroads, commission shippers, airlines and all sorts of corporations whose business is affected by weather. It looks like a good depression-proof business. There never can be a weather SHORTAGE.

• • •

A man in the weather industry need never worry over conservation movements, embargoes or Federal control.

• • •

And Washington never can ration it!

• • •

John E. Wallace, a former Army Air Forces major and ex-employe of the Washington weather bureau, started the weather forecasting sales service and is reported swamped with orders. He says he takes it up where the regular weather bureaus leave off and dopes out the probable weather in greater detail and over more specific areas.

• • •

This is one type of weather prophet who can't lose. He gets paid—win, lose or draw.

• • •

We are sorry we didn't think of this first. Imagine cashing in on the age-old question: "What're we gonna have, rain or shine?"

• • •

From the beginning of time people have been answering that one for nothing. It has been strictly a give-away program.

• • •

And suddenly there arrives the rain, snow, sleet, hail and sunshine specialist, the tycoon of temperature changes, the mogul of cloud movements.

• • •

The man who started on a shoestring and worked up to a million-dollar industry now gives way to the fellow who began with an isobar and worked up to a major corporation.

• • •

We await the radio commercial:

"Do you suffer from unexpected weather? Are you among those people who get caught in the rain? Does snow enter your life without warning? Are you a victim of falling temperatures? Then why not write today of Never-Miss Weather Forecasts? Find peace of mind and nonchalance through knowing about blizzards instead of merely guessing. Yes-s-s-s-s, Never-Miss Weather Forecasts will take those wrinkles from your forehead, end those falling hairs, efface that apprehensive look from your eyes and send you outdoors every day radiant in the thought that you are prepared for anything from a shower to a typhoon.

"And don't forget that you can win one of 500 mink coats, complete with deep-freeze unit and muff, by completing the sentence, 'I like to know whether it is going to rain or snow BECAUSE . . .'"

HENRY MOSER.

Dr. Edwin G. Mourse has been named chief of an anti-inflation board. Is he a trained Nourse or a practical Nourse?

A commission has found that Washington could save $250,000,000 a year by merely buying supplies with a minimum of red tape, duplication and poor business methods. Paper work on 1,500,000 orders a year involving only $10 in each case cost the government more than $10 for unnecessary letters, carbons, filing, duplication of effort, unnecessary help, etc. That gives you an idea.

As fine as it was for tolerance and racial understanding, the election of Levi Jackson, Negro, to the captaincy of the Yale football eleven was not done with that thought uppermost. Levi got the vote because he had proved himself a top football star, a fine student, a lad of superb character and a genuine sportsman. Jackson was under constant test down there on the gridiron. In more than one game he was singled out as a special target. He often was a victim of unnecessary roughness. In a few contests it was notable. Yet he was never known to lose his head, squawk, quit or sulk. As Charlie Loftus has pointed out, he was "a guy who could take it and always come up for more, smiling." Levi Jackson is a top-grade human being and a fine gentleman on and off the field.

Final Score: 0 to 0

By Truman Twill

When the football season now ending was young—before scarcely a ligament had been torn—skeptical comments were made here about football's shortcomings as a spectator attraction.

It was pointed out that football primarily was a pushing contest between muscular males; that in its efforts to keep itself from becoming deadly dull it was subject to various questionable practices; and that it would be lucky if it survived these practices over the long pull—or push.

Needless to say, remarks like these were a finger in the bright and gleaming eye of football players, coaches and fans, some of whom set about to prove to this correspondent that football was undoubtedly the finest sport in the U.S.A. and that anyone who doubted it must have been thinking about a couple of other games.

The season now ending has done nothing to allay the misgivings of football's critics. If anything, the misgivings have been deepened, and it couldn't very well have been otherwise. Because the misgivings were caused in the first place not by football's critics but by football's professed admirers.

They are the ones who have thought up all the wrinkles that have caused eyebrows to be lifted. It has been their high-compression ideas that have been backfiring in their own faces. Take, for example, the practice of unlimited substitutions, which is the latest one to hit them in the eye.

This was a stunt to gain an advantage by changing football from a contest between two teams of players to a form of modified warfare between squads of specialists. These specialists galloped on and off the field of battle in such bewildering confusion that no one could keep track of what was going on—not even the coaches themselves.

It seems sufficient to point out that it's the coaches who now are inclined to undo the damage by changing the rules again. It's to their credit as the professional trustees of the game that they are willing to admit they overreached themselves in their grab for victory at any price. But have they really learned anything?

Football is the victim of a credo that victory must be won at any cost. That is at the bottom of most of the black eyes that football has given itself. It's behind the encroachment of professionals into supposedly amateur circles. It's why disgruntled fans are disposed to fire the coach who doesn't win. It's why players sometimes are guilty of tactics that are a mockery of sportsmanship. It's why a great many educators and parents of school boys are inclined to think that football is open to doubt—as was said before—in many respects.

The subject of football is herewith turned back to the footballers for their own thoughtful consideration during the off-season. It's their baby, and they can have it. Cute little thing, isn't it?

Marion Man Finishes Refrigeration Course

Marion F. Makeever of 199 Superior street recently completed a specialized training course in refrigeration with the Trades Engineering Institute in Chicago according to information received from the institute.

After nearly a year of preparatory study Mr. Makeever attended shop classes at the institute for a period of three weeks. The shop practice covers intensive work on numerous types of refrigeration equipment.

Mr. Makeever is employed at the Universal Cooler and plans to practice his refrigeration training as a sideline for the present. He is a veteran of World War II.

"Jake the Barber" Seeks Prison Release

By The United Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 30 — John Factor, Chicago gangster known as "Jake the Barber" in the 1933 era, yesterday asked the U. S. circuit court of appeals here for release from prison.

Factor was sentenced to 10 years and fined $30,000 Feb. 2, 1943, for using the mails to defraud. He now is an inmate of the federal correction institution at Milan, Mich.

The petition for release stated Factor was kidnaped in 1933 and held for ransom by Roger Touhy and Basil Banghart, Chicago gangsters. Touhy and Banghart were imprisoned but escaped by the time Factor came to trial, the petition continued. Factor said he pleaded guilty at the time to the mail fraud charges to escape reprisals from Touhy and Banghart after they escaped.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I GAVE Junior a comprehending and applauding smile at his success in satisfying Faith with the half-truth about the marauder who had shot Dicky in the left arm, miraculously missing the heart at which he had aimed.

"I just knew my daddy wouldn't be so careless as to get shot while he was cleaning his gun," Faith said smugly. "But I suppose you all thought I was too little to be trusted with the real dope."

Indulgent Laugh

My signaling frown silenced the indulgent laugh on Dicky's lips, and I looked steadily at my young daughter.

"Not too little, Faith," I said "you're old enough now to be trusted with secrets, but you're careless sometimes, and talk too much. When you can learn to guard your tongue, you can be trusted with secrets, too."

I half expected sobs or pouting at the reproof, one never can accurately predict Faith's reaction to anything, but instead, she cocked her head, and looked at me calmly.

"I suppose," she said, "I'll have to go on prohibition."

"What in the hinges," Dicky said explosively but with a wide grin and Roderick came up with the answer.

"I think," he said, "she means 'probation.'"

"I guess that's the real word," Faith said loftily, "but they all mean the same thing, so what's the difference?"

Over her head Dicky shook his own at my opened lips, ready to correct her error and I hastily closed them again, realizing this was no time for hair-splitting for Faith was preening her wings for full flight.

"How long must I go on this probation, Mummy?" she asked. "A week, a month? What's the limit?"

A certain "blankness" in her manner prodded me to a more rigid answer than I ordinarily would have made.

"I think three months will be about right," I told her. "If you can guard your tongue, and say nothing about anything you either are told, or you overhear accidentally, for that length of time, then I think we can trust you with secrets."

I made the mental reservation that the secrets to which she had access would be most carefully chosen but to my astonishment, she made no demur about the extended time. Instead, she rushed up to me and threw her arms tightly about me.

"You're the most scrumptious mummy, a bad girl ever had," she said.

"I've an accolade. Dicky didn't get one but Faith rushed on breathing. "And when I ever guard my tongue," she said, "I'll put clothespins on it every day."

Enough Limelight

I hurriedly switched the conversational to another track as the laughter at her subs died. She had had enough limelight for one day I decided.

I think you might like to know the reaction of your son and your nephew to your proposal that they ask Mr. Veritzen to renew his offer of matinee tickets. I told him.

Dicky lowered at the boys through half-narrowed eyes and they flashed as they returned his gaze squarely.

If the set-ups what I think it is, I'm very flattered, he said.

Mrs. Post: "It's cruel to drag it in. It's 21 October 1873. But I never mention it if I can help it. But I seems to be an anchor around my neck that I can't get away from. Seems the older I get the more interested people get in my age."

Mrs. Post: Now if I were approaching 100. Where is this going to be printed?

Correspondent: It's for our files."

Mrs. Post: "Oh, an obituary. Well if they're not going to print it until I'm dead I don't care."

"Go on, Madge, give down with the dope."

Thoughts for a Lady about to taste Folger's for the First Time

BEFORE you touch Folger's Coffee to your lips—forget everything you ever thought about the taste of coffee. This is different!

Let the full magic of the aroma work its spell. It is an exciting aroma—full of goodness that nature developed in the mountains of the Tropical Americas. Folger's Coffee is Mountain Grown—from regions where nature puts extra flavor into coffee.

The blending of these rare coffees is a masterful achievement—an art that has been handed down through three generations.

As you sip the brew, notice the keen, winey tang . . . and the real depth of flavor without heaviness! When you come to know and look for that depth of flavor no other coffee will ever taste quite so good.

The goodness you have discovered is so marked that Folger's is the largest selling brand of coffee in the great-over-all-area where it is sold. Now, try Folger's . . . and notice how much extra enjoyment it adds to every meal!

A Special Kind of Coffee— MOUNTAIN GROWN So Extra Rich in Flavor You are urged to TRY USING ¼ LESS than with lesser flavored brands!

MR AND MRS EVERETT L UNGAPHER of 153 North Greenwood street announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruth Joyce, to Frank J Smythe, son of Mr and Mrs Guy Smythe of Upper Sandusky. The wedding will take place Sunday, Dec 12 at 6:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Evangelical and Reformed church. The choice of open date is left to all interested.

Miss Ungapher was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1943 and from the Good Hospital School of Nursing in Cincinnati, O., in 1946. She is now employed at Good hospital as assistant supervisor of obstetrics.

Her fiance is a graduate of Upper Sandusky High school with the class of 1943 and he served two years with the U. S. Navy. He is engaged in farming.

HUSBANDS of the members were guests when the Child Research club of the Child Conservation League entertained Saturday evening at The Barn near Delaware. Entertainment was furnished by Lynn Rohrbaugh and for roll call the husbands responded by telling when and where they met their wives. Guests included Mr and Mrs A C McGeehee of Worthington, Virgil Barkley, Karl Barkley, Greer Chapman, Dwight Foreman, Dan Hentze, Ivan Jordan, Don Lindsey, Stephen Kohner, Forest Massie, Clarence Meister, Carroll Metz, Harold Van Houten and Arthur Winder.

A family Thanksgiving dinner was held Thursday by Mr and Mrs G C Chambers at their home near New Bloomington. Guests included a sister of Mrs Chambers, Mrs Ivy C Landgrabe and daughter, Mary B Landgrabe of Cleveland, Mr Chambers' brother, Mrs Emma Chambers of near Mexico, Mrs Chambers' mother, Mrs Thomas D Corey, Irvin Corey, and the son and family of the host and hostess, Mr and Mrs Jack Chambers and daughters Barbara and Mary, all of New Bloomington.

On Sunday, a family dinner was held at the home of Mrs Corey. Four generations of the family were present which includes Mrs Corey, Mrs Chambers, Jack Chambers, and his daughters, Barbara and Mary. For entertainment in the afternoon, hymns were sung by the two little girls.

Mrs Landgrabe and her daughter were guests at the G C Chambers home and also at the home of Mrs Corey during the weekend, returning to their home Sunday.

To honor the third birthday of her daughter, Susan Lynn, Mrs Robert B Croman entertained a group of children at her home at 186½ East Center street, Wednesday. Favors were pink party hats and balloons. The refreshment table was decorated with a circus scene, and refreshments included individual cakes with candles. Games were played. Present with the celebrant were Bobby and Linda Beth DeVere, Bobby and Karen Sue Ridenour, Karen Sue Kimble, Pamela Sue Shirk, Diana Coffey and Michael Davis, and mothers, Mrs. John DeVere, Mrs Robert Ridenour and Mrs Dale Kimble, and present also was Mrs. W. J. Orton.

Mr. and Mrs Hubert Kuenzli of Nevada are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, June, to Donald L Noblit, son of Mr and Mrs Donnie C Noblet of 951 Reed street, Bucyrus. The wedding will take place Feb 27, 1949, at the Lutheran church in Nevada.

A family dinner was given Sunday at the home of Mr and Mrs John Hazlett of Flies avenue honoring Mr and Mrs Bernie Staley of Huntington, W. Va., who were visiting here for the first time in six years. Other guests included Mr and Mrs Harry Williams of Columbus, Mr and Mrs Emery Hawkins and daughters of Delaware, Mr and Mrs George Hoffman and family of Mound street, and Mr and Mrs Ed Richendollar and children of Flies avenue who entertained with music.

"Suggestions for Caring for a Sick Child" was the subject for roll call at a meeting of the Homemakers Study club last week at the home of Mrs. Doris Barton of near Cardington. Miss Ethel Mack of Cardington gave a talk. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Muriel Howser, and business was in charge of Mrs Lois Fairchild. It was decided to have the annual Christmas party for members and their husbands Dec 27 at the home of Mrs Helen Frayer. Names were drawn for exchange. Refreshments in keeping with Thanksgiving were served. Mrs. Doris Ruehrmund was assistant hostess.

Britain, Europe Blanketed by Fog

By The United Press

LONDON, Nov 30 -The worst fog since the Christmas season of 1944 blanketed Britain and the European continent today, tying up air, ship and railroad services for the fourth straight day.

All planes of the Berlin airlift, upon which 2,500,000 persons in the western sectors of the German capital depend for food and supplies, were grounded.

Once again the scheduled sailing of the world's greatest liner, the 83,000-ton Cunarder Queen Elizabeth, was canceled. The vessel now has been tied up at Southampton for 13 days, first because of the U S east coast longshoremen's strike, and for the last three days by fog.

MIAMI COACH ON PROGRAM AT GALION

Speaks at Rotary-Sponsored Grid Banquet.

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov 30— The attitude of school officials is very important in building a winning team," George E. Blackburn, head coach of Miami University football team said at the football banquet given by the Galion Rotary club Monday night at the American Legion Home.

"So long as school officials have a desire for a winning team, and there is a junior training program such as now exists in the Galion schools, it is only a matter of time until a winning team is produced," he said.

The Miami coach said that requirements for success in football are really more mental than physical. He op ned that in present day football, emphasis is based upon speed, and not just size of the player. He gave some advice to the football players of the Galion High team who were honored guests when he told them that they should have willingness to work hard, and recognize the necessity of constant repetition in practice."

He also paid high tribute to Bill Stoner, a Galion halfback on Miami's winning team this year, for his splendid training. He spoke especially of Bill's superb kicking.

The coach commended another Galion man, Joe McGuire, photographer of the Miami team, who came to Galion along with Stoner for the banquet.

Many of the pictures of the Miami team which Joe had taken were displayed on the wall at the Legion home, Monday night.

Before Blackburn spoke, Galion's football coach, J. Harold [illegible] Bear manager [illegible] for its [illegible]. He said that this year's team [illegible] working and the [illegible] age of any team he had coached. The boys are [illegible] Frazier said, and most of them are saying, 'Just wait until next year.'

In addition to the [illegible] players, the Galion High [illegible] athletic [illegible] other guests were present. The meeting was presided [illegible] Howard Nussbaum. He also introduced J T Schaaf, [illegible] of the 1948 team of Galion High school, and next year's captain, Bill Wisler.

Two Students Arrested For Failing To Register

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 30 — Two Wilmington college students charged with failure and refusal to register for the peacetime draft will be given a hearing on Dec. 8 before U. S. Commissioner J. Paul Goeghegan.

The pair, Douglas R. Parker and William E. Probasco, are the first persons to be arrested in this area for failure to register under the new draft law.

They were released under $500 bond yesterday after a preliminary hearing at which they told commissioner Goeghegan they believed the draft would lead to, rather than prevent, war.

Parker said he was registered during World War II but was classified 4-F. He is married. Probasco said he served three years in a conscientious objectors camp during World War II.

OHIO RANKS THIRD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30 — Ohio ranks third in new factory construction since the war, the state development and publicity commission reported yesterday. John R.
